SHE went straight to the bed, and, taking Rosamond in her arms, sat down with her by the fire. My poor child! she said. Two terrible failures! And the more the harder! They get stronger and stronger. What is to be done? Couldn't you help me? said Rosamond piteously. Perhaps I could, now you ask me, answered the wise woman. When you are ready to try again, we shall see. I am very tired of myself, said the princess. But I can't rest till I try again. That is the only way to get rid of your weary, shadowy self, and find your strong, true self. Come, my child; I will help you all I can, for now I can help you. Yet again she led her to the same door, and seemed to the princess to send her yet again alone into the room. She was in a forest, a place half wild, half tended. The trees were grand, and full of the loveliest birds, of all glowing gleaming, and radiant colours, which, unlike the brilliant birds we know in our world, sang deliciously, every one according to his colour. The trees were not at all crowded, but their leaves were so thick, and their boughs spread so far, that it was only here and there a sunbeam could get straight through. All the gentle creatures of a forest were there, but no creatures that killed, not even...
