The safest conclusion seems to me that the whole subject is beyond the scope of mans intellect; but man can do his duty. Again in 1879 he was applied to by a German student, in a similar manner. The letter was answered by a member of my fathers family, who wrote: --Mr. Darwin begs me to say that he receives so many letters, that he cannot answer them all. He considers that the theory of Evolution is quite compatible with the belief in a God; but that you must remember that different persons have different definitions of what they mean by God. This, however, did not satisfy the German youth, who again wrote to my father, and received from him the following reply: --I am much engaged, an old man, and out of health, and I cannot spare time to answer your questions fully, --nor indeed can they be answered. Science has nothing to do with Christ, except in so far as the habit of scientific research makes a man cautious in admitting evidence. For myself, I do not believe that there ever has been any revelation. As for a future life, every man must judge for himself between conflicting vague probabilities. The passages which here follow are extracts, somewhat abbreviated, from a part of the Autobiography, written in 1876, in which my father gives the history of his religious views: --During these two years I was led to think much about religion....
