Disease with him had a short work, it being pneumonia of an acute kind, attended with diphtheria. He called to his bedside a dear friend, and said to him, I am sick, as you see. It is probably my last sickness. My work is done, --my Saviour knows all about it; and I know in whom I have trusted. Nothing remains but a suitable arrangement for my burial. He then gave such directions as seemed to him to be proper, and left it with his friend to carry out his instructions. This arrangement was made by him with as much deliberation and composure as if he were only going on a short journey to the...
