Not illustrated. 1919 Excerpt: .convex lenses may be accepted, but just as often they are rejected; the proper way to positively determine the presence of hypermetropia, which may be latent, is by means of the fogging system. A patient 35 years of age having 3 diopters of hypermetropia asks for reading glasses but complains of constant migraine; give the correction that you would order and state, with reason, when in your opinion the glasses should be worn. The fact that the patient suffers with constant headache would be sufficient reason for advising glasses to be worn constantly. We do not know what method was used to measure the 3 D. of hypermetropia, nor what the acuteness of vision was naturally and with glasses. Perhaps the patient will not bear the full correction for constant wear, in which case we would order as strong as can be comfortably worn for that purpose, and the + 3 D. as an additional pair for reading. As patient will probably object to two pairs of glasses, we would theoretically be justified in ordering the + 3 D. for constant wear and also for reading, but in practice we are sometimes compelled to modify as above. // there is a tendency of the eyes to cross, on which side will the light streak appear with the Maddox rod over the left eye? How should the prism be placed to bring the lights together? By tendency of the eyes to cross we understand a tendency to...
